WF0 100-15433

The following information concerning the issuance of previous passports to the subject was set forth in his passport file:

On May 1, 1939, Passport Number 614947 was issued to the subject. In his application for that passport, subject stated he desired to travel to Mexico, England, and France for a visit of one year's duration for the purpose of study and writing.

On September 17, 1940, the subject, by letter to the Passport Office, requested the return of Passport Number 614947 which was taken from him-by Immigration authorities at the Mexican border on June 15, 1940. Subject stated that on October 15, 1940, he intends to take a trip to the Soviet Union and will depart from San Francisco en route to Vladivosto via Yokahama. He stated he will be making this trip as an invited guest of the League of Russian Writers and the purpose of the trip will be to study the national minority problems existing in the Soviet Union.

On September 27, 1940, the Passport Office, by letter informed the subject that there was no imperative necessity for his journey to the Soviet Union and that the Department of State was unable to validate his passport for the journey.

On May 13, 1941, subject, by letter to the Passport Office, requested renewal of his Passport Number 614947 in order to permit him to travel to the Soviet Union and China. He stated he intended to depart from the United States at San Francisco on July 21, 1941 for travel to Wadivostok via Kobe, Japan. Subject stated the purpose of his trip would be to write news articles for the Associated Negro Press, 3507 South Parkway, Chicago, Illinois.

On June 24, 1941, the Passport Office, by letter to the subject, informed him that the Department of State did not believe that accredited American Journalists should be permitted to proceed to the Soviet Union until the Soviet Union is disposed to be more lenient toward the travel of United States representatives.

On March 9, 1946, subject, by letter to the Passport Office, advised that he intended to travel to France on April 15, 1946. He stated that his wife serves him in the capacity of secretary and research worker, and inasmuch as he is to represent the publication, "Twice a Year", to the French public, writing articles about French literary developments, reestablishing contacts for the distribution of the periodical, and seeking manuscripts for reproduction in America, it was necessary that she accompany him.

On April 29, 1946, Passport Number 64829 was issued to the subject and was validated for travel to France only. On March 16, 1948, subject's passport was renewed for two years. At the time of renewal, the subject stated that he has resided in France since May, 1946, for the purpose of serving as a Correspondent for the Associated Negro Press.

On March 6, 1950, Passport Number 122 was issued to the subject at the American Embassy, Buenos Aires, Argentina. In his application for that passport, the subject stated he desired a passport in order to visit France, Haiti, England, Italy, Switzerland, and Belgium.

On November 26, 1951, the American Embassy, Paris, France, furnished information to the Department of State reflecting that the subject was maintaining residence in Paris, and that the Embassy had received information indicating that th subject was willing to go to any length in order to attract attention to the problem of racial discrimination in general and to its manifestations in the United States in particular. It was further stated that the subject has been using as an instrument for his publicity, a group to which he has given the name of "Franco-American Fellowship."

On February 21, 1952, the subject's Passport Number 122 was renewed for two years at the American Embassy, London, England. At the time of renewal, subject stated he was residing at 28 Glenluce, London, England, and pursuing the occupation of writer.

On February 23, 1954, Passport Number 2536 was issued to the subject at the American Embassy, Paris, France. In his application for that passport, the subject stated he was residing with his wife, FREDA/PCPLOWICZ, and two children, JULIA WRIGHT, born April 15, 1942 at Brookly, New York, and RACHEL RIGHT, born January 17, 1949 at Paris, France.

WRIGHT, P. 101

UUINIZ

On July 28, 1944, the New York "Herald Tribune" published an article entitled "Kegro Article Criticized Reds as Intolerant" in which Wright was reported to have stated that his Communist Party membership roughly covered the perio from the latter part of 1932 or early part of 1933 to 1940, a his early association with the Communists in Chicago was brok in 1937 when, he said, he was "ejected" from the Party. Wright stated that he was re-instated in 1937 and maintained a relation with the Party until 1940. However, Wright's name appearance was reported to be a member of the American Committee to Save Refugees as of March 6, 1942, and on September 18, 1942, he was listed as one of the officers of the League of American Committee to Save Refugees has been cited as a Communist front by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, Report of March 29, 1944, and the League of American Writers has been cited as Communist by the Attorney General.

The August, 1944, issue of the "Atlantic Monthly" published an article entitled "I Tried to be a Communist" in which Wright discussed his earliest experiences as a Communist Party member in Chicaço and touched upon the problems he faced in trying to present his own ideas to the Party. As a result considerable publicity was given Wright's articles in the "Dai! Worker" newspaper. In his column entitled "New Times," publish in the August 6, 1944, issue of the "Daily Worker," Benjamin J. Davis, Jr., referred to Vright and to what he called Wright's "public and wholly unjustifiable attack on the Communists." Davis referred to Wright's claim of withdrawing from the Communists in 1940, and asked why Wright waited until 1944 to make his break public. Davis inquired whom Wright was trying to super-leftism.

Wright left the United States for France in May, 1946 and there is no indication in our files reflecting that he has ever returned to the United States.

An individual who lives in Paris, Prance, advised in December, 1951, that Wright retained his United States citizenship and lived off his book royalties from American sales. He reported that he had attended a meeting which was a "Communist front" and which was generally critical of American policies, racial and foreign. This meeting was attended by Wright who had publicly renounced Communism, but he was as much a Communist as he had ever been.

On December 16, 1951, another Governmental agency conducting intelligence investigations reported that the Franco-American Fellowship Group was organized almost entirely by American Fellowship Group was organized almost entirely by Richard Wright, American writer, 14 Monsieur Le Prince, Paris, France, immediately after World War II, and was supposed to be a sponsorship for young writers, artists, and poets who were students in France. At the time of its organization several of the students had made statements to the effect that the group was students had made statements to the effect that the group was "leftist" in the nature of its discussions. According to the informant, Wright and his group were the targets of attacks from one James Baldwin, a young Negro writer who was a student in Paris. Baldwin attacked the hatred themes of the Wright writings and the attempt of the Franco-American Fellowship Group to perpetuate "Uncle Tom Literature Methods."

On December 10, 1951, an American citizen, then living in Paris, advised that her niece, who was a student, had been invited to join the Franco-American Fellowship Group by Richard Wright, who stated that the group was composed of "militant persons" interested in the welfare of the American Negro. According to the informant, the niece attended one meeting of the creanization and came to the conclusion that despite its denials of Communism, the group espoused the Communist Party line as the girl had known it in the United States.

AT APPEAL TO BLACK EXPETERS AND ARTISTS

For the first time in history, Regro Writers and Artists are going to take the initiative in meeting together and in ascertaining how they are situated and what their specific responsibilities in the world are.

Coloured non all the world over are of opinion that the liberation of the initiative of peoples must enrich harm culture to no mean degree. Such a liberation enables man to be more fully conscious of the exact relationship between all beings. It is in near's nature to reveal his dimensions solely by self-empression and not by leaving it to others to empress his real self. Units are finishing of the nearming of the world's total limits, it is art generated by the free-will of peoples that will delineate, the impost aments of non-lumgeen harm groups. Copying the cultural appetites of our countries would have been unfair and impoverishing. Milewise it would have been harmful to orience to willfully ignore a whole fraction of the animal, vegetable or mineral hingdon.

But it is not culture alone that will derive benefit from our free initiations of any kird running uncould if its formula dues not integrate the real aspirations of peoples formuly considered as minors. All the same, they must be heard and resomined.

Hence the responsibility of the scholar. He is the encheter of modern society, since his calling requires him to shed light on everyone's cultural vocation; in other words he has to reveal to end develop in everyone a sense of his solidarity with other non end the world.

The Regro World, the nost neglected by history, is not the last to aspire after the extreme of its subturnl responsibilities. Our civilizations, because they hadn't thought it fitting to engrave their laws on brass nondenests, are reaping the radi distain of others. If wedges, the expression of cultural life being necessary to the safeguard of any civilization, we feel more acutely than others the urgancy of revealing ourselves to the world. And first of all, the urgancy of introducing ourselves to each other.

Hegro Scholars don't know each other. They have not yet taken up the measurements of their respective possibilities nor of their comm lot. They are scattered and often isolated in surroundings where their personality is not sufficiently turned to profit.

Since notody has yet assessed the whole contribution of Megres to mendand's heritage, the task of describing it and defining the genius of their peoples is up to them.

The August, 1944, issue of the "Atlantic Monthly" published an article entitled "I Tried to be a Communist" in which wright discussed his earliest experiences as a Communist Party member in Chicago and touched upon the problems he faced in trying to present his own ideas to the Party. As a result considerable publicity was given wright's articles in the "Daily Worker" newspaper. In his column entitled "How Times," published in the August 6, 1944, issue of the "Daily Worker," Benjamin J. Davis, Jr., referred to Wright and to what he called Wright's "public and wholly unjustifiable attack on the Communist." Davis referred to Wright's claim of withdrawing from the Communist in 1940, and asked why Wright waited until 1944 to make his break public. Davis inquired whom Wright was trying to impress and indicated that Wright's attitude was a form of super-

Wright left the United States for France in May, 1946, and there is no indication in our files reflecting that he has ever returned to the United States.

An individual who lives in Paris, France, advised in December, 1951, that Wright retained his United States citizenship and lived off his book royalties from American sales. He reported that he had attended a meeting which was a "Communist front" and which was generally critical of American policies, racial and foreign. This meeting was attended by Wright and it was the informant's opinion that even though Wright had publically renounced Communism, he was as much a Communist as he had ever been.

On December 16, 1951, another Governmental agency conducting intelligence investigations reported that the Franco - American Fellowship Group was organized almost entirely by Richard Wright, American writer, 14 Monsieux Le Prince, Paris, France, immediately after World War II, and was supposed to be a sponsorship for young writers, artists, and poets who were students in France. At the time of its organization: several of the students had made statements to the effect that the group was "Leftist" in the nature of its discussions. According to the informant, Wright and his group were the targets of attacks from one James Baldwin, a young Megro writer who was a student in Paris. Baldwin attacked the hatred themes of the Wright's writings and the attempt of the Franco - American Fellowship Group to Perpetuate "Uncle Tom Literature Methods."

On December 10, 1951, an American citizen, then living in Paris, advised that her niece, who was a student, had been invited to join the Franco - American Fellowship Group by Richard Wright, who stated that the group was composed of "militant persons" interested in the welfare of the American Megro. According to the informant, the niece attended one meeting of the organization and came to the conclusion that despite its denials of Communism, the group espoused the Communist Party line as the girl had known it in the United States. made in substance the following statement:

is a member of the American Society of Composers and Publishers (ASCAP) and covered other susteel composer groups which is mentioned in the course of tated that, at the time when he first planned his trip abroad, the goups had been very eseperative in aiding his and had promised an advance payment on royalties to tide ever BOURSE until the next period of rayalty payments. (SIBJECT stated that the errangement is for the composers to put all collection of royalties into the hands of the musicians groups and then these groups pay monthly alletments to the composers; these allotments are dependent upon the payment of soyalties for arrangements by the composers but a deposit is retained and a fund built up to assure payments ever a period of years when the music composer is no longer popular.) Suddenly, on the day prior to the departure date of SOURSE, the province shock was re seived but was smither the amount promised per requested by stated that he tried to find out my there had been a sudden thange in the attitude of the group; he was told that the music groups saw no reason why he should come ever-seas, and there had been a hesitancy to allot money to him to be med for a trip at the time. SOUTSF suspected that such was due to the fact that be had complained to the "White House" in a personal letter about some subversive activities of the groups to which he belonged. SOURSE stated that it had seemed to him that Low TVY, husband of one of the Andrew Sisters, had made a great effort to "push" some composers who were Eussian and others who were very pro-Communist. SOUTSE is of the opinion that funds paid to Russian composers as such was every good cover to transfer dollar Gredita to the Soviet government; he further said that he had written a letter to the White House calling attention to the preferential treatment given to Energy pro-Communist members of the composers. A lot more of the mase tenor followed.

Then SOURSE stated that after reaching France he had used the American Express who worked at the American Express to give personal attention to his mail so that it would be forwarded to him on a planned trip to ROLE.

In France in June, went to England in Augsut, and had been in Paris continuously since September.)

Catch up on the bills when his checks arrived.

- 2. SOURSI seemed sincers and sounded such more coherent than the written report seems to indicate. SOURSE volunteered the information, explaining that he was seeking money or any remuneration but wanted to do his patriotic duty.

 One thing seemed strangs that was the ant-Secretic three of his statements. Dourse referred to Col. MCCOPMICE as a "great American" and expressed approval of the editorial policies of that section of the American press.

 SOURCE seemed to be well versed in the attachment of various persons to the sound obtain would be gladly given to Military Intelligence.
- 3. Department of Veterans Affairs, US Embassy, Paris, verified that there is a second of one and an information.
- 4. It is possible that COURS, say have a "mental quirk" which would account for the attempt of the Society of Composers to keephin in America. Tet a word to the Passport section would have accomplished this. Intriguing matter and the information goven reference 489 ties in with the original information.

Washington, D. C.

DATE OF THE BOOK Black Boy, supposedly written by a negrocalled Richard Wright, and published by Harper & Brothers, New York City, Federal Bureau of Investigation, I consider this book to be very racially inflammatory. The publicity given to this book during the last few months is scarcely less than amazing. A while back (I do not know the exact issue, but believe was during June, July or early August) the book "Black Boy" was publicized, with vivid picturization, in "Life" Magazine; and in September 29th issue ("Liberty" Magazine, there was a condensation of the book--with special mention on the front cover of the magazine. By strange irony, this issue of "Liberty" which contained the condensati of the racially inflammatory book "Black Boy" --- displayed on the front cove of the magazine the picture of a returning United States soldier greeting, salute, the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor. Granting that the megro called Richard Wright actually wrote the book, it is my opinion that all the publicity given to the book is being financed-ei by some person or organization--for propaganda purposes: to fam the flame of dissension and seditious discontent. How Hitler (if he is yet alive) must I would like to believe that my surmise is inborrest; but the evidence, a cerning all the publicity given to this book, discharably refutes any such wishful thinking. I might also add that the book has been advertised in local newspapers and -- I presume -- in newspapers of other cities all over the United States. I am remembering that the plan of evil dictators and their indoctrimated brood is -- still -- to "divide and then sonquer." Am offering this suspicion, in case you should deem it advisable to invest gate the book and the financing of its extensive publicity -- (and the end does not appear in sight). All loyal Americans, I feel sure, are grateful for all the splendid work done by the F.B.I. in detecting and eradicating crime. With best wishes for the continuation of your most valuable activities, I am Sincerely, REMORDED
